

Dear Trade Partner,
Phnom Penh has a new airport

From 09 September 2025, all flights to and from Phnom Penh have moved to the new Phnom Penh Techo Airport (KTI). This includes all Etihad flights that commence from 03 October onwards, when our inaugural flight lands in KTI.

Actions required

- At the time of publication passengers will be prompted to accept the schedule change. Should the passenger contact details not be within the PNR, agents are required to inform their customers and/or revalidate the bookings from their side.
- If any ancillaries have been purchased for these flights, EMDs would need to be reissued.

Getting to and from Phnom Penh Techo Airport

- Phnom Penh Techo Airport is located approximately 35km from the city centre in Taprum village, Boeng Khyang Commune Kandal Stung District, Kandal Province, Cambodia.
- Check-in desks will open three hours before your flight and close one hour before departure. We recommend arriving with plenty of time to familiarise yourself with the new airport.

What to do next

- If your customers already have a booking to PNH they will receive an automated email indicating that their flight has changed to reflect the new airport of arrival, KTI, they can also find their updated trip itinerary and ticket at etihad.com/manage.

Kind regards,
Etihad Airways
